

Own your future. Plan for it now.

You can't predict the future. But you can plan for it.

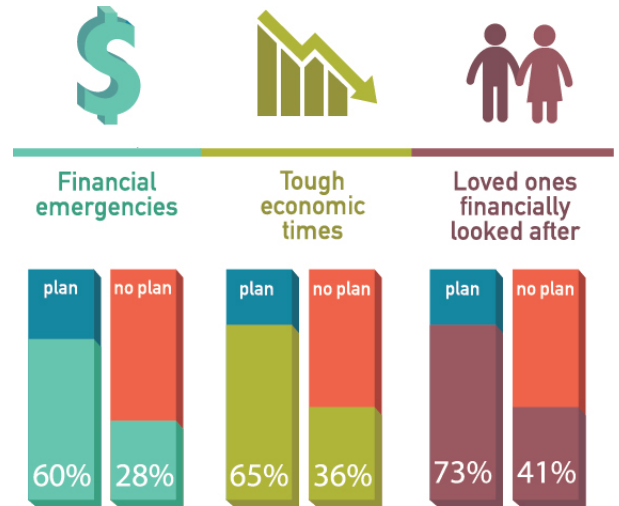

A job loss. A prolonged illness. A sudden death. The decision to go back to school, or travel the world – just a few of the unexpected life events that can send you – and your finances – reeling.

Don't face an uncertain future alone. Lean on objective advice from an advisor.

Having a financial security plan in place can help you successfully navigate life's rough patches, protect your family and help keep your wealth intact.

Talk to us about how a customized financial security plan can offer protection from unexpected expenses and events.

Plan ahead. Be prepared. Ensure you're ready for anything.

The value of planning ahead

Self-confidence never goes out of style. Neither does a solid financial security plan.

Households with a plan are more satisfied with their current financial situation, more comfortable with their current debt load and feel more confident that they will have enough money to retire comfortably than households with no plan.*

They're also more able to enjoy annual vacations and the occasional splurge.

They feel confident that they are making the right financial choices. Choices made with the help of a financial security advisor.

Clear, professional financial advice can provide you with a financial road-map for life. So you can stop worrying about money and live the life you want with confidence.

* Ipsos Reid Canadian Financial Monitor

 FPSC: The Value of Financial Planning, 2012